

I truly value being able to access the Internet through a small ISP like Sonic. Their service and response to glitches is nothing short of wonderful. I am concerned that if the FCC no longer regulates the larger phone companies like SouthBell, the opening for these small ISP's would be shut off. Thanks for taking time to consider my comments. Grant Syphers, Pleasanton, California